Setting the scene
How workshops can help meet the new standards requirement to grasp organisational context

Renewables
Academic power
Its own wind farm and biomass plant will help Scotland’s oldest university to be carbon neutral

Pollution
Chimney sweeps
What can carbon capture and storage learn from the rollout of desulphurisation equipment?

Complete transparency
Environmental product declarations
March

News
4 EU ETS reform gets green light
Climate talks yield draft text
5 Energy outlook bad for emissions
EIA scoping process works
6 EU cities top global index
Market for sustainability advice failing expectations
In parliament Alan Whitehead welcomes party leaders signing climate agreement
8 Defra counts costs and benefits
Parties debate green taxes
9 Big conversation IEMA members on LinkedIn discuss the reasons why some chief executives are ignoring climate change

Legal brief
11 Recent prosecutions Pollution incidents cost Thames Water £247,500; ECJ considers mandatory EIAs; Aarhus committee rules on NGO costs
Case law LexisPSL experts on the Court of Appeal's dismissal of an appeal against High Court's decision not to grant judicial review
12 New regulations Climate change; energy; environment protection; noise; water; emissions; waste; marine environment
13 Latest consultations Civil sanctions; low-emission strategy; low-level nuclear waste; maritime transport; marine conservation
Guidance Energy savings opportunity scheme; natural capital; cradle-to-cradle 14 Laying down the law Andrew Wiseman considers the changes to EIA thresholds and whether raising them will have much impact

Insight
38 EIA update Call for mandatory fracking EIA; fails; IEMA EIA practice update with Josh Fothergill; IEMA research
39 My career Anya Ledwith, director and environmental consultant, ESHCon

IEMA news
34 New 14001 on track for September launch
New member e-newsletters coming
35 Speakers confirmed for collaboration event
36 Preparing for the general election
Policy update Josh Fothergill on how IEMA is encouraging collaboration for change

Features
16 Product transparency
As demand for environmental product declarations rises, Maxine Perrella discovers whether the benefits to suppliers outweigh the costs of doing them

19 Context is everything
EEF's Greg Roberts describes how he conducted workshops in two firms to help them understand the clause on organisational context in the new 14001

22 Learning to make a difference
Scotland's oldest university has ambitions to be energy self-sufficient by 2016. Catherine Early reports on how St Andrews is going to achieve its target

26 Building blocks of sustainability
Paul Suff talks to Jennifer Clark, director of environment at Skanska UK, about how IEMA corporate membership is helping the firm become greener

29 From FGD to CCS
Flue-gas technology has helped remove sulphur from power stations. Peter Brown discovers what carbon capture and storage can learn from its rollout

32 Carbon in the city
Experts at ENERGIES 2050 in France on the new finance mechanisms that could help to tackle greenhouse-gas emissions from multiple urban sources

March 2015 | environmentalistonline.com